

New turf

At the local hockey grounds, there are four fields, with one of the four being brand new artificial turf. The allocation of fields to play on for the draw in a ten round competition is random.

How many games would a team expect to play on the new turf?

Use random numbers to set up a simulation of this problem. Comment on the results of your simulation.

